Mike-

My name is Zach Galifianakis - you did a rendering of me that I saw. I apologize for my face but I thank you for doing it.
Your work is very splendid.

Best wishes

The Greg Wilson

This episode was written by Larry David. These are my actual notes from a writing session Larry and I did for this show.

This was very typical of the way Larry and I would work together. He would put together the stories and ideas, the most important part, and then we'd sit in the office we shared with our desks pushed together, and we would fool around with the dialogue.

We also had a great time

Jerry Seinfeld

We always had great fun in these sessions making each other laugh even though often times we were under quite a bit of pressure to get the script ready on time.

There's quite a bit of funny stuff in this draft that is not in the episode and I think it gives a great insight into how silly two grown men can get.

Please excuse the handwriting, I certainly never intended for anyone outside our office to read this.

Please don't show it to anyone.
